

Santa Rosa, Calif. January 30, 2012 – Friedemann Goldberg LLP is pleased to announce the addition of Marci A. Reichbach to its team of attorneys.

Ms. Reichbach comes to the firm with more than 13 years experience in the legal field. Her most recent position was with the Superior Court of California in San Mateo as a Complex Litigation Research Attorney.

She earned undergraduate degrees in Political Science and Psychology from Stanford University. She studied law at Yale Law School where she was chair of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Society and on the Morris Tyler Moot Court of Appeals.

After graduating she worked for four years at Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP, an international law firm where she focused on securities fraud, antitrust, unfair business practices and contract matters. She also was an adjunct professor at the New California School of Law.

She then moved into her most recent position with the San Mateo Superior Court where most of her work was focused on securities fraud, antitrust, construction defect and complicated business tort, contract, mass tort and intellectual property cases.

John F. Friedemann, managing partner of the firm is thrilled to have an attorney with her background on the team.

“Stanford, Yale, Pillsbury and the Superior Court. Marci has the best credentials a law firm could ask for. On top of that, Marci is a warm and charming person who will be a joy to work with. That impression was confirmed by the judge she has been working for who raved about her,” he said.
